

An Easter challenge!

You might be a great poet already – or perhaps it's a very long time since you even thought about it.

Either way, here's your Easter week challenge.

Take a short passage of scripture – you might like to choose a sentence or two about the Resurrection, e.g.:

Matthew 28:5-10; Mark 16: 14-15; Luke 24: 13-35; John 20: 24-29; John 21: 4-10; John 21: 15-17

Read through the verses you have chosen several times, until you can decide which words mean the most to you today.

Write down the words – at least 9 of them – randomly.

Now comes the best part – arrange 9 of your words as follows:

WORD

WORD WORD

WORD WORD WORD

WORD WORD

Before your very eyes a poem will emerge!

You will have written a Cinquain poem.
