

Meditation on a yoyo

Imagine the string as a link between you and God.

If the string is tied tightly enough around the middle of the yoyo, the yoyo should work well.

Think about this – does it relate to you in any way?

If you achieve a good rhythm the yoyo will come and go, working just as it should. The light will shine.

How would this apply to your own links with God?
Is prayer part of your rhythm of life? Pause and reflect.

Sometime, no matter how much you try,
the yoyo keeps getting stuck, at the far end of the string.

Does this happen in life?
Is it sometimes hard to get close to God?
And yet... He's still there...tethered to you like the string.
Loving you.

Take time to know and be pleased.

Sometimes we don't want to play; we just hold the yoyo.

Neither your hand nor the yoyo are of much use at those times.
Perhaps they're times of reflection? Ponder... Wonder.....

PLAY! Go yoyo!!!

Light up the world!

If you haven't had a yoyo recently, you may be surprised to know that there are ones that light up as you use them!
